Abstract: To understand the critical interrogation generated around the value of health care services, it is essential to approach it from various fundamental ideas extracted from the value-generating economic strategies. Firstly, it is important to understand what a value-based health care service is and what steps have to be taken to create it. Secondly, one should try to differentiate the added value in health care services, and, finally, one should acknowledge the necessary economic elements that define the management of the value-based health care services.

Keywords: value-based health care service, result-based value, added value in health care services, management of health care services
